Responsibilities: Hear and rule on appeals dealing with the assessment of property in accordance with state law

Note: Since the Assessment Appeals Board is a quasi-judicial body, persons with an interest in matters going before the Board should technically not contact them on an individual basis in order to influence their vote on the matter. This would be akin to someone with a case before a magistrate or circuit court judge contacting them in an attempt to influence their ruling prior to the trial. This was taught during the annual training sessions as required by State Code. The proper opportunity for person to speak to the Board is at the public hearing where the Board as a whole can be addressed.
